LOCAL WHOLESALE TRADE

FAIR BUSINESS DONE, DESPITE THE UNSEASONABLE WEATHER.

Prices, in the Main, Firm, and in Some Cases Higher-Grain Markets Are Relatively Quiet.

That trade in the aggregate last week fell below the expectations of merchants in nearly every line is attributed to the cold weather. On Commission row trade has been somewhat limited owing to the light receipts of fruits and, to some extent, of vegetables. Last year's apples and Irish potatoes are about exhausted and receipts of new potatoes are not, as yet, liberal. Watermelons, green corn and blackberries | 65c per box. came on the market and the supply of cherries is quite large.

The produce markets retain their firm tone and in neither eggs nor poultry are the receipts heavy. As a consequence prices are a shade higher than at the close of the week ended June 6.

The dry-goods houses had a very fair week's trade. A good many buyers were in, who took advantage of the low railroad rates to visit the city. Millinery houses Grocers had as good a trade as could be expected under prevailing conditions. Many traveling salesmen being in to attend the annual convention of the T. P. A. Leather dealers had a good trade and prices ruled firm. The hide market was active and prices were steady at the recent advances. Iron and hardware dealers report trade as being very satisfactory. Prices are firm and

The Title Should Be Applied Only to

The degree of "doctor" has been given for so many causes-and sometimes for no cause at allthat, together with the M. D.s, the D. D.s and the D. D. S.s, it is difficult these days to know when a man is introduced as "doctor" whether to talk about the latest epidemic, the higher criticism or the best tooth wash. This more bewildering on contemplating the degrees of Ph. D., S. D., Mus. Dr., D. E. L. H. D. and LL. D. Each college or university has its own ideas as to what qualifies a man for being a "doctor." One would be quite within the facts if he tartly hinted that the qualification is sometimes a moderate amount of greenbacks put out where they will do the most good.

As a measure of self-defense many holders of doctorates from high-grade institutions now write parenthetically after their degrees the source whence the degree came. As Ph. D. (Col. Coll.) And now, as if things were not sufficiently bad, a new doctorate is proposed-to wit, "doctor of achievement." This is a degree under mortgage to Mr. Andrew Carnegie. James J. Hill and Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan. Our doctorates are getting to be like European decorations, or "orders" or "legions, respecting pawnshop has an unlimited supply of

As a remedy a most sensible rule is being put into practice in Washington, namely, to call each and all by the plain title of "Mr.," tor to the physicians. It is said that Chicago University first laid down this rule, every one on its faculty being assumed to have the degree as a matter of course. A most ex-cellent rule, indeed! The "grand old name of 'gentleman' " is a sufficient decoration for those who find the very chiropodists rejoicing in the name of "doctor." It is like the woman who was well content to be called a woman after reading in a newspaper that "a lady convict had escaped from Sing Sing."
For some "doctors" the title which might best apply is "Baron of Merit."

THE DRY MEAL THEORY.

Nature Says that We Should Take Fluid with Our Food.

New York Medical Journal. Dr. J. W. Carhart, in the Texas Courier-Rec-ord of Medicine for January, says that from time immemorial, so far as he knows, the dogmatic teaching has been that fluids taken with meals are injurious. The less taken at such times, therefore, the better. This dietetic dogma, in his opinion, has its basis in theory only. The sole appeal to fact for its support that he has ever known has been to the habits of wild and domestic animals. But wild animals drink while feeding, where they have opportunity-which is not frequent-and they generally drink as soon thereafter as they can conveniently reach a watering place. Domestic animals are too generally excluded from the water trough or cooling stream while feeding. If left to themselves and amply provided for, they will frequently drink while eating. To fatten well, they must be allowed their liberty in this respect. If Nature is to serve as a guide her most thundering declarations are against dry meals. Who, says Dr. Carhart, when eating heartily, has not experienced an overmastering, uncontrollable thirst? It was not a still, small voice in the depths of the dietetic regions, to be easily hushed, but the tremendous outcry of Nature passed into an empty stomach, and again after the liberal ingestion of food, the reading will show a considerable rise of temperature immediately after partaking of a hearty, dry meal. An empty stomach is quiescent. On the ingestion of food activity begins, and activity increases temperature. This develops thirst, which may become so intolerable as to be positively painful, actually interfering with digestion and rendering progress in the meal fairly impossible. Every horseman knows that a thirsty horse will frequently refuse his feed until he has slaked his

The Club Towel.

Washington Post. The roller towel, like the noon dinner, is not regarded as the proper thing in fashionable clubs. There the towels are small, like napkins. They are stacked in great white piles, and each is used but once. A man wipes his hands upon a towel and then throws it into a hamper, whence it passes to the laundry. The club towel never gets dirty, and this fact, it was pointed out yes terday, makes it as dangerously unsanitary as the old-fashioned roller towel, used by different persons until its hue is shocking. For the laun-dress, since the club towel is only rumpled when it comes to her, merely wets it, dries it and irons germs upon it, its slight washing does not destroy the germs, whereas, were it, like the roller towel, good and dirty, it would be washed thoroughly and the danger of infection would be dissipated. The remedy lies in throwing the club towel into water that is boiling. Such an immersion, even if it be of the shortest duration, suf-

SMALL ADVANCES MADE

GRAINS ARE VERY QUIET, BUT THE ENDERTONE IS FIRM.

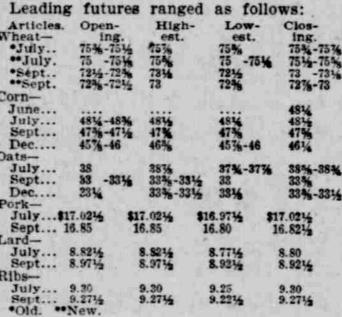

Corn Is Unchanged, but Wheat and Oats Show Closing Gains-Provisions Are Easier All Around.

CHICAGO, June 13.-Extreme quietness prevailed on the Board of Trade to-day and after ruling easy the early part of the session wheat closed firm with July 3604c higher. Corn closed unchanged, oats were %@%c higher and provisions were unchanged to 71/2c lower.

Excellent weather was the chief influence in the wheat pit at the start and opening prices were easier on general selling by commission houses, with July down 1/4c at 751/4c. There was a fair scattered demand at the decline and a rally ensued, the market steadying around yesterday's closing figures. Bullish reports from Kansas showing a poor crop outlook helped in the buying movement. There was a better demand for September than for the near futures and that delivery ruled firm. Late buying by shorts and a good demand from a prominent operator caused a firm close, July being \%@\c higher at 751/2075%c, after selling between 75@75%c and 75%@75%c. September closed %c higher at 72%@73c, after ranging between 72%c and 73c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 273,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 496,300 bushels. against 506,700 a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 285 cars, which, with local receipts of 15 cars-none of contract grade-made a total of 300 cars, against 245 last week and 239 a year ago. Trading in corn was quiet and the only feature was a scattered demand for July from local shorts, which had a strengthening tendency. Early prices were easier on the weakness in wheat and on favorable weather, but buying caused firmness later. July closed easier, but unchanged, at 481/2c. after selling between 481/4c and 481/4c. There was considerable changing from July to September and the latter month closed a shade higher at 47%c, after ranging between 47%c and 47%c. Receipts were 238 cars, 18 of contract grade. Oats were again active, with July in urgent demand from shorts, which caused a sharp advance in that delivery. The more distant months were steadled by the strength in July, but the sentiment was bearish in those deliveries, due to improved weather. After selling between 37% @37% c and 38% c, July closed %@% c higher at 38%@38%c. September closed %c higher at 3336c. Provisions were dull and there enough selling pressure on lard from packers to cause an easier feeling throughout the entire list. Trading was dull featureless. September pork closed lower at $6.82%. lard down 5c at $8.92% and ribs unchanged at $9.27%. Estimated receipts for Monday: Wheat 0 cars; corn, 525; oats, 180; hogs, 41,000

SUNDAY MORNING IN IRELAND.

Seumas MacManus, in Donohoe's.

On the Road to Chapel and Before Mass.

I know of no scene more cheering, more inspiring, more impressive than that of a sunny Sunday morning among our mountains, when the people-the boys and the dren, in their cleanest, in their brightest and best-wind down the hillside and over the moors, and stream along the white country roads to chapel. It is a refreshing sight and a joyous one, and an elevating The sun is in these people's hearts, and in their souls, as well as on their faces. The girls have on their brightest ribbons the women their bluest cloaks, the men and boys their freshest frieze, or richest broadcloth. Neighbor steps out with neighbor, and friend with friend, and couples gravitate to groups, or groups dissolve again in couples as they proceed; the hearts of all going lightly as their feet. Though the distance may be miles, and the road be rough, they never know it; and | No. their journey is indeed all too short for the many, many absorbing topics that they have to pass in review. When they reach the chapelyard, their first thought is to say a pater and ave, kneeling by the graveside of some dear departed one; after which since it is not yet mass time, they mingle with the many there assembled already, meet their friends from the opposite end of the parish whom they have not seen for seven days, swap the news of their respective districts, learn the state of their markets, the doings of Parliament, the latest pronouncements of the and district councilors.

politicians, discuss wars and rumors of wars, criticise premiers and poor law guardians, and fortell the fate of kings If the priest be one of the real old school he has consideration for his people, knowing that, owing to the long distances they have to come, many of them will be late, and consequently, for sake of this, he allows a generous margin beyond the stated time for saying mass; and a very considerate and conscientious one will often send his boy, Barney, up the Altevogue road, to the head of the rising ground, "to see if he can see any sign of Shan Mor O'Kennedy," always the last man in attendance-coming, and if so to hurry him up. During this waft before mass, and while the male portion of the congregation are standing about the yard, and settling the affairs of nations, the women have gone inside; are doing the stations of the cross; offering prayers for the dead, and prayers for the living, prayers for the present, and prayers for the absent, and an occasional little prayer for themselves. By far the majority of them pray silently. devoutly, earnestly, with manner that is touching and impressive. Always, however, in our country chapels, you will find a gathering of beggars, and of professional voteens, who invariably gather around the altar rails, and unmistakably exhibit their belief in the doctrine that the kingdom of read before the American Therapeutic Society, Dr. O. T. Osborne, citing the causes that conduce to nervous breakdown among Americans, laid stress, as one of the worst, on "the constantly and recklessly increasing consumption of coal-tar products for the relief of pain, whether for the omnipresent headache or for simple neuralgia." It would be well if this rebuke of heedless drug-taking for triffing ills could be printed in large letters and hung on the walls of half the households of America The coal-tar products referred to are particularly of the phenacetine and anti-kamnia kind, drugs that dispel pain by that most dangerous of processes, the enforced slowing down of the blood-circulating machinery, the heart. They reduce the temporary high pressure which is causing the pain, but they do so violently and with danger. It is the habit of the thoughtless to make use of these powerful drugs on the slightest provocation and without medical advice. It is a very rash habit, one responsible both for sudden deaths and for many a premature physical collapse. Dr. Osborne tells those who are alling to go to bed, and it is good advice. To adopt it will be far cheaper in the end than the UNION STOCKYARDS, INDIANAPOLIS, June 13 .- Cattle-Receipts, 200; shipments fair. The receipts of cattle this week have been exceedingly large, showing 2,300 over last week, 1,200 over the same week a year ago and 3,100 over the corresponding week two years ago. There was an average of over 1,000 per day arrived for the six market days, and the receipts Wednesday, Thursday and Friday averaged nearly 1,600 per day. They were the largest week's receipts since the week ending Sept. 28, 1901, when 7,203 arrived. For the year thus far the receipts are less than 1,200 smaller than the same period a year ago, and thus far this month there is a gain of nearly 900 over the corresponding time last year.

It has been a remarkable week in this branch of the trade. Early in the week local packing houses were confident that they would not get the usual number of cattle from outside markets, and, therefore, would have to rely upon this market for their supplies. The demand from other sources was also, no doubt, improved for the same reasons, and, notwithstanding there was a steady gain in receipts, prices advanced rapidly, which, of course, is a very unusual occurrence. From the beginning of the week the demand, or, rather, competition, was strongest for the steers that were up to the requirements in quality and fat, and there was less discrimination $5.75 to $6.50. Hogs-Receipts, 5,000; shipments, 2,400. The marketing of hogs this week shows a decrease of over 8,000 compared with last week and an increase of 4,500 over the same week a year ago and a decrease of over 3,000 compared with the corresponding week two years ago. Thus far this year the receipts are over 39,000 larger than the same period last year, and for the month thus far there is a gain of over 15,000 compared with the same time a year ago. For the week ending yesterday the leading local packers bought a total of 24,888, against 28,950 the preceding week and 21,418 the same week a year ago. During the same period the shipments were 6,198, against 6,330 the preceding week and 2,842 the corresponding week a year ago. The receipts this week have been rather disapcointing from the fact that dealers had expected ncreased supplies from territory tributary to certain other markets that were closed on account of the flood. The supply at the beginning of the week was larger than usual at that time and the market opened at only about steady prices compared with the close of last week. Later, however, when receipts began to decrease there was a corresponding improvement in the demand, resulting in a gradual upward movement in values, and for several days local packers were the principal support of the market. Shippers were not much in evidence until near the close of the week, when their presence, as usual, had a good effect on prices. After an advance of nearly 30c from Tuesday to Thursday there was a reaction of 5c in prices, but at the extreme close of the week, with very strong competition between packers and shippers, values railied again, and the average at that time was right around 35c higher than the close of last week. It is due to local packers to say that they were rather free buyers at all times, but naturally the strongest when they had the most opposition, and there is probably no doubt that they would have been inclined to depress the market had there been an opportunity. Some of the reasons given for smaller supplies this week were that the farmers have been to busy in their fields to give their attention to live stock, and, also, that it is natural for supplies to decrease when prices are advancing. The quality this week has been very satisfactory, there being more hogs than usual good enough to sell around extreme prices, and the average weight has been heavier than usual at this season of the year. Prices at the close of this week are as high as they have been at any time heretofore this month, and, in fact, since before the close of May. The uniform quality also is responsible for a closer range in prices than here has been for some time past. The receipts to-day were not quite as large as week ago, but nearly 2,000 larger than a year ago and above the average for a Saturday market. With several unfilled orders yesterday, the opening to-day was characterized by an active demand from all buyers, and, on account of some fear that the supply would not be large nough to meet all requirements, and encouraged by favorable reports from other places, there was strong competition between packers and shippers, and from the start the offerings were changing hands promptly at an advance in prices. As usual under similar circumstances some sales showed more than the average advance, while

The receipts of sheep and lambs this week have been comparatively liberal, showing a gain of 1,300 over last week, more than 800 over the same week a year ago and nearly 2,500 over the corresponding week two years ago. Thus far this year the receipts are a little over 5,000 smaller than the same time last year, and for the month thus far there is a gain of over 900 compared with the same period a year ago. Notwithstanding the increase in receipts, the demand this week was very good until after the middle of the week and a good strong average was maintained. Finally, however, the requirements of local butchers were smaller, and, with ess opposition, buyers on one day required a reduction of about 35c in prices. At the extreme close of the week, however, there was a little stronger tendency in the market and values were in almost the same position that they were at the close of last week. Of course, there were a great many more here than required to supply the local demand, but, with shippers liberal buyers all week, good clearances were made each day at current prices. The highest prices paid this week were $8.90 for lambs, $6 for yearlings and $4.25 for sheep. INSPECTION OF LIQUORS. Many Drunkards Are Caused by the Use of Adulterated Wines.

The Pilgrim. Multitudes of wrecks are caused by the adulterated wines of France and the chemically treated beers of England and Amer-Recent commissions in France and England have discovered an alarming condition of impurity in these drinks, and such a commission in America would undoubtedly reveal to us a condition of affairs very much worse. There are, also, doubtless cases of drunkenness from the drinking of pure wines and beers. The point is that the evils flowing from their consumption do not constitute 1 per cent. of the hideous and growing curse of intemperance. This small quantity of evil many temperance reformers abroad acknowledge to be more than counterbalanced by the benefits which accompany. However that may be, no fact is more certain than that more people become diseased and brutalized from overeating than from drinking these pure, light and historic beverages. All of this goes to show that, while it is important, first, to have all beers and wines carefully inspected to insure their purity; second, to "take the profits out of the liquor business" by the Gothenburg, the South Carolina or any other plan; third, in every possible way discourage the drinking of whisky and all other strongly alcoholic drinks; fourth, to prevent as far as possible the drunkardmaking habit of treating; and, fifth, to do all in our power to increase the number of total abstainers; that it is also highly important to show a breadth of mind and a large charity for the practices and opinions of those who are not abstainers, but who are "temperate in all things," even in the drinking of pure, light, healthful alcoholic stimulants. That fanaticism which refuses to recognize a part of the truth draws upon itself the common contempt and defeats its own ends. Anxious to See President. Washington Letter. From present indications President Roosevelt will be welcomed back to Washington by a considerable contingent of Congress. There are many of these statesmen who have been patiently waiting for his return to discuss with him questions ranging from foreign policies to the appointment of postmasters in their districts. The few days he will spend in Washington promise to be as lively as any he has experienced during his two months' absence. It is expected that a number of leaders in both houses will take occasion to meet him to discuss matters of moment to the Republican party and to the country generally. They wish to get the benefit of his experience and observation during his 15,000 miles trip through the country. They recognize his ability to grasp public sentiment and thought, and there are several questions of great importance on which the voice and opinion of the people are desired. It is expected that Mr. Roosevelt will have a fund of information upon which the lead-

One of the statesmen in the party, a man of much ability, vouchsafed no stories, "Come," said the President, "tell us some of your experlences." "Mr. President and friends," replied the lawmaker, "there are no thrilling natural history chapters in my career. Lions, Indians, bears and wild horses have
